HANDBOOK

Welcome!

Esteemed advisors, dear delegates and future participants,

On behalf of the Secretariat, it is our utmost honor to cordially invite you to the 5th annual session of the American College of Greece Model United Nations Conference. In continuation to previous sessions, we are pleased to welcome participants from all around the globe, even virtually from Friday, April 8th to Sunday, April 10th. Despite being unable to host you all in the ACG premises, we still wish to offer you all a memorable experience.

We live in times of global uncertainty as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic, climate change, socioeconomic challenges and recent threats to peace and security. Hence, it is of magnitude that we unite worldwide, to strive with shared aims towards solutions to such major issues. With the rapid digitalization of modern societies, these matters have become especially far-reaching, affecting people regardless of borders. The Covid-19 pandemic has put the world to a test. Apart from the direct devastating effects of a global health crisis, the pandemic has influenced countries on a social and economic level as well. From human rights violations, such as the right to privacy, to financial stagnation and threats to democracy, citizens of the world have been confronted with handling difficulties which stem from such issues. Urgent collective action is necessitated in order to tackle the challenges that are present today - and will remain tomorrow, if we remain idle. Bearing this in mind, and emphasizing on particular problems that nations face, with its theme this year, the 5th ACGMUN conference directs its focus towards achieving "Decent Work and Economic Growth" on a global scale. The theme is aligned with the UN 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda, as it also constitutes its 8th goal. As former Secretary General of the UN Ban Ki-moon once stated, "Saving our planet, lifting people out of poverty, advancing economic growth - these are one and the same fight. [...] Solutions to one problem must be solutions for all".

Participation in an MUN conference could start a journey of realizing issues of global significance and taking steps to solve them. Throughout the course of the 3-Day conference, delegates will be met with the task to participate in debate, with the aim of responding to major issues. Undertaking the role of diplomats and world leaders, they will interact and engage with each other in an accurate United Nations simulation. Thus, they will be presented with the chance to grow, both as intellectuals, as well as individuals.

We are looking forward to welcoming you all in April in the upcoming session of the 5th ACGMUN.

Yours sincerely,

Nefeli Gkaroutsou,
Pandria,
Secretary General

Maria

President of the General Assembly

GUEST SPEAKERS

Alberto Prati

Dr Alberto Prati, one of our esteemed guests, is an economist currently researching the intersection of behavioral economics, philosophy of science and social psychology at the University of Oxford, Wellbeing Research Centre. Dr Prati acquires an impressive resume, filled with numerous major achievements as well as several well-respected positions, and possesses an immense amount of knowledge on economics, part of which we hope he shares with us today, helping us obtain a deeper understanding of the theme of this year's conference: Decent Work & Economic Growth.

Having a Bachelor of Science in Econometrics and a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy from Pantheon-Sorbonne University, a Master of Research degree in Economics from the Paris School of Economics and a PhD in Economics from Aix-Marseille University, he is an affiliate of the CEPREMAP -CENTRE POUR LA RECHERCHE ECONOMIQUE ET SES APPLICATIONS- Wellbeing Observatory, has served as a consultant at the OECD- Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development- and as a lecturer in economics at Sciences Po Paris.

Lastly, we would like to thank Dr Prati for agreeing to enlightening us with his vast knowledge and for being a part of the 5th ACGMUN Conference. We appreciate his good will and willingness to become part of our conference and we wish him good luck on his research, as well as a bright future with many more achievements

Ann Makosinski

At the young age of 24, few can say they have achieved as many things as the Filipina-Polish Canadian keynote speaker and inventor Ann Makosinski. Forbes Magazine's '30 under 30' and Popular Science's 'Young Inventor of the Year' constitute only two of the numerous awards Ann has received for her innovations and entrepreneurship, especially in the field of green renewable energy. With groundbreaking inventions under her belt, such as the Hollow Flashlight that can be lit using the heat of a human hand, Ann aims to come up with ways to incorporate renewable energy sources into objects used in one's daily life.

Her passion for innovation and creative design is not limited to science. As an avid enjoyer of the arts (which she also studied at university while simultaneously proceeding with her career in science), Ann believes that "[...] it's really important to bring science and art together" in the pursuit for innovation.

Overall, Ann constitutes an outstanding role-model for young people and especially girls who aspire to pursue a career not only in the field of science, but also in any occupation related to invention. In her talks as a keynote speaker, she encourages creativity, innovation, entrepreneurship and confidence to be yourself, to not be afraid to stand out and to strive for progress.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Conduct

Standards of conduct are expected to be maintained on a high level. All participants are expected to behave in an appropriate manner and respect other delegates, chairs and staff; The Secretariat reserves the right to ban any participant failing to adhere to the rules of the Conference.

Fees

We are pleased to announce that this year's fee will be 20 euros per delegate, but all proceeds will be donated to charity. There will be no fees for Schools participating, Advisors, Student Officers. The charity we have selected is "The Smile of the Child", a charity dedicated to helping children in need. The money will be deposited from all schools and independent delegates directly to one of their bank account numbers. We hope our conference's contribution will make a difference in many children's lives.

Dress Code

Delegates should be reminded that formal attire is required. If the delegates do not comply with the dress code, they will be asked to leave.

Smoking, Alcohol

No smoking or alcohol consumption is allowed during the conference.

RULES OF PROCEDURE

Official Language

English is the official and working language of this conference and therefore it is to be used in all proceedings and all kinds of communication between the delegates. This rule applies to all the committees within the school premises at all times. ACGMUN follows THIMUN rules and procedures and all documents are based on those.

Delegations and Delegates

During formal procedures delegations can only communicate with each other by the means of note-passing.

Committee Session

The decisions of the Secretariat and the Chairpersons are final.

It is vital that every delegate wishing to address the committee raise their placard and wait until they are recognized by the Chair. They may not interrupt a speaker and should, thus, wait for the floor to be open.

The Chairs reserve the right to suspend note passing if the delegates do not use it for session related purposes

Debate

Modes of Debate:

1. Closed debate: under this format there is a distinction between time in favor of the draft resolution debated upon and time against.
2. Open debate: under this format the above distinction does not exist and therefore delegates are given the floor in an order without regard to their support or opposition to the proposal.

No motion or point can interrupt the speaker, except from the point of personal privilege and only when it refers to audibility problems. The point of order can only interrupt the voting procedure.

During debate, the delegate who has the floor may yield the floor either to the Chairs, Points of Information or another delegation. He/She may also declare a no yield. Regarding the yield to another delegate, consecutive yields are not permitted. However, the delegate who had the floor yielded to him/her also has the right, with the approval of the chair, to be asked and respond to POIs.

Resolutions

No resolution can contain financial amounts but can refer to possible financial resources without specifications of exact amounts.

Signatories

Each resolution shall have a Main Submitter and Co-Submitters. The latter do not have to fully agree with the draft resolution's content; their signature is required for the draft resolution to be eligible for debate. Signatories should constitute 1/3 of the total members present in the committee. Signatories can sign only one resolution per topic.

Amendments

All amendments shall be submitted during the Committee sessions.

Only one amendment per submission will be in order.

Voting

Each country represented shall only have one vote per voting procedure.

Abstentions will be allowed on both resolutions and amendments unless a Motion to Divide the House has been raised and entertained. On procedural matters (motions) abstentions are not allowed.

If the Committee votes come to a tie, then the proposal will be rejected.

MANUAL

Draft Resolution

The draft resolution is a document which includes proposed measures that according to your country will solve the issue.

Preambulatory Clauses

They constitute the introduction of the resolution and they contain the background of the issue. Each clause begins with a pre-ambulatory phrase and ends with a comma. These clauses are not debatable.

List of Preambulatory Clauses

Affirming	Expressing its	Nothing with
Acknowledging	appreciation	satisfaction
Alarmed by	Expresses its	Noting with
Approving	satisfaction	appreciation
Aware of	Fulfilling	Noting with regret

Deplores	Invites	Urges

Please note that these operative clauses may only be used in the Security Councils.

Lobbying

During the lobbying procedure, delegates work and negotiate with each other in order to reach a consensus. This is the time for delegates to share their views and create alliances, always with regard to their country's policies.

Once the alliances are formed, the alliance needs to the Chairs for a Co-Submitter sheet, which every delegation signs, stating their membership in the alliance and approving the inclusion of their country's name to the final resolution.

Once an alliance has crafted their final resolution, which should follow the official format, it needs to be brought to the Expert Chair on the topic who will correct any policy or format mistakes.

The resolution has to be approved by the Approval Panel. The Chairs are responsible for getting the resolutions submitted approved. The Main Submitter is not going to be involved in the process.

Debate

This is when all the resolutions are being discussed. The delegates' goal is to persuade the House to vote in favor of their resolution.

A copy of the resolution that is to be discussed will be distributed to all the delegates. The Main Submitter will be called upon to read the operative clauses out loud and deliver a speech in favor of the resolution. Once debate time for a resolution has elapsed the House moves into voting procedure.

During debate we remind the delegates that they should by any means be respectful and diplomatic.

Speakers should refrain from using the first personal pronoun ("I") or related phrases such as "My delegation..." as they are representing a country and not themselves.
